Katreart Architecture, design and application areas, work in different scales and categories. We aim to present the art by integrating it into the living space. In every project we work on, we combine our creativity and imagination with the professional experiences we have in order to present what has not been previously designed. For us, each different project requires a different approach and this is supported by a concept of design that must be valid for a conceptual coherence. As Katreart Architecture Interior Architecture, we bring new perspectives to them by following the changing design trends in the world and interpreting different examples.

Welcome to Değişim Industrial Cooling Cooling is a technique of getting heat from objects. The food needs to be cooled so that it can be stored for a long time without deterioration. In the food industry, large warehouses are equipped with high-capacity cooling machines. Food-borne illnesses and poisonings that arise when hygiene rules are not followed during the storage of foodstuffs can negatively affect both public health and country's economy. As Değişim Endüstriyel, we regard it as a duty to support both healthy life and economy by providing the most suitable solutions to your needs with products which are environmentally friendly and extremely suitable for necessary conditions.
